Carbone Considers Past: Asks for Student Support

By Yolanda Carbone

The Student Government Development Agency has finally reached the end of its existence. With elections coming in October, this agency will be dissolved, leaving behind a functioning student government and constitution.

Several students throughout the past two years have put in hours of work and effort to get this organization to this point. The actual compiling of the Constitution and its ratification are, perhaps, the most significant accomplishments to date.

William Lambert, a former president of this agency, is responsible for steering the document through those crucial months. Together with the other members of the group, he presented the final copy to Jack Morehart, Stark County Branch director, who then sent the document up the ladder at our parent university.

Deborah Ropp, former president of Kent State University, approved the constitution and the student government. The Student Government Development Agency had overcome its first hurdle and was on the way to making real progress.

That brings us to the present and the future which includes the first all-campus student elections held at the Stark County Branch. We have had not all recruiting students to run for office; we are recruiting the entire student body to vote.

So now the responsibility is ours. Jack Morehart is secretary to the director of Student Affairs. We have the responsibility of student services including financial aid information. Miss Pat Schmidt is the student affairs staff as secretary in the department.

The Gettysburg Address; Revised and Updated

Five weeks and four days ago the Gettysburg Address was made forth a new University conceived in the heat of battle. It was written as the proposition that all men can be educated equally.

Now we are engaged in many wars testing whether this campus or any other will or shall be, so dedicated as can actually accomplish its goal. We are not on the march of democracy to the ends of war. We have come to dedicate a portion of this ground for a memorial to those who have given so that this University might live. It is at this memorial that we propose we should do this. But in a larger sense we have come to dedicate a portion of this ground for the dead and the living that no accomplishment the final goal. The professors and students who will work and struggle here will dedicate it far above our poor power to add or detract.

long remember what we do here but it will never forget what thousands will do here. It is for us, the present college member, to carry on the unfinished work to the extent they will follow and to those who so have notable advancement.

The Minority Affairs and Defense Education Act helps public schools to purchase electronic language labs, it does not do this for the colleges, public or private. Institutions of higher learning, therefore, have had to struggle in recent years to keep from being over ruled by high schools from which their students come and to which their graduates will go as language teachers.

Dear Editor:

I was privileged to meet and talk with office and encouraging the incoming Freshman class during the orientation week in August. I hope the many friends and classmates will continue to enjoy this feedback. I believe that the organization should be a "bridge" in the "army" to those former students who have become lost in a sea of people. I am sure that there are many reasons for this excitement, one of them being this new campus itself. But, I feel the Orientation Coordinator deserves much of the credit. Under the leadership of Mrs. Martha Betti, our Student Development Agency planned and organized an extremely outstanding program to them.

It was apparent during the four days that much work and preparation went into each event. Discussion of the Student Government Development Agency of which I am proud to have had the opportunity to be a part. (Continued on Page 6)

The time to present our views to the Freshmen. We also appreciate the help which the members gave.

I hope that the Orientation group accepts our congratulations for a most successful week and that the positive personal satisfaction and feel the accomplishment is reward enough for these hard working students. I am hoping to see many of the people involved at next month and encouraging their development will continue.

Freshman Orientation: A Beginning

Class of '71 Sparks New School Spirit

This year's Freshman Class knows all about the new building, the teachers, school spirit, and even fellow classmates. But just how did these newcomers become so smart so soon? It all began back on August 21, with a wild, organized confusion type happening called simply orientation.

For two days the new Fresh attended lectures, toured the building, and met faculty members along with the usual registration and counseling. They also found that college life is not all work and no play. A tug of war was held, a bonfire burned, a cook out eaten, a folk sing song and... just check over the accompanying photos.

 Tradition and school spirit have resulted from the orientation sessions. Without these two elements, the Stark County Branch would be just another student factory. But now that spirit and tradition have been initiated, as a new student aptly put it, "This just might be quite a place!"

Looking for Someone To Thank?

Then look no further because orientation chairman Marcia Battista and committee heads EmilieCampo, Sue Heffelfinger, Suzanne Jackson, Larry Wilgus, Mark Menges, Keith Murray, Kathy Seibert and Todd Stoffelberger certainly deserve oak leaf clusters (and one purple heart) for their work on the 1967 Student Orientation Board. Everything you see in the photos on these pages is a result of their combined efforts.

And do not forget board members B.J. Casper, Linda Cicchinelli, Jane Emery, Bob Friedman, Jane Jenkins, Becky Kilkenney, Dennis Matson, Tom Oser, Mary Kay Ritchard, Gary Sigler, Tim Sigler, Patty Wayne, Larry Wilgus and Cheryl Zeiger.

THE BEGINNING BEGAN with a general assembly in the main lecture hall. In this early morning meeting, the faculty was introduced and short speeches were presented by representatives of the various student activities. The students were dismissed after a very impromptu pep rally.

BETWEEN LECTURES, Annette Evans (L) and Robyn Dorn found time to soak up some sunshine on the mall.

WITH ALL THE BUSTLE and chaos of the orientation sessions, quiet moments were few. Janie Jenkins managed to find one under a table, YECCH! First man on the rope was first to hit the mud in the tug of war. Orientation planners weren't kidding when they said to wear old clothes.

EVER GET THAT PAIN IN THE NECK FEELING? Everyone who participated in this game could not escape it.

HEAVE HO AND BUILD IT HIGH! Muscular frosh built a giant bonfire for that same evening's folk sing.

AS THE BONFIRE burned and the folk singers sang, the orientation sessions ended, and everyone realized that it was more than just the start of a new school year.
Meet the Administration!

Since the fall term has brought many new developments to the Stark County Branch of Kent State University, it is appropriate to introduce the administration to the student body.

Mr. Morehart — director of Kent State University Stark County

There is a new look for the Stark County Branch. A new location, new buildings, and a new outlook on its sports program.

Robert Kistler, athletic director, said he saw significant improvement in the sports program at the Stark Campus.

The new stadium is being designed specifically for basketball, the major sport participated in by the campus. This improvement is due to new eligibility rules which allow a greater number of men to participate. Also, Mr. Kistler looks forward to more of a student following, because of increased enrollment, and more of a college atmosphere on the new campus.

These are the reasons Mr. Kistler has an optimistic view of this year's basketball season. 16 games are scheduled for this year under the leadership of coach Ray Swog. (Coach Swog is well qualified. He had an 8-5-1 record before coming to KSU. In 1959 he led North Canton H.S. to the class B championship at Columbus.)

The season opens November 5 with KSU going against Midland College. With a few of the county's top players planning to attend this fall, coach Swog and Mr. Kistler are hoping to improve upon last year's 8-19 record.

The highlight of last year's basketball season was the first Ohio Regional Campus basketball tournament which attracted a field of eight. This year the tournament has been expanded to twelve teams. (They are Ashburt, New Philadelphia, New Philadelphia, Lima, Mansfield, Newark, 2 Cleveland State teams, and 2 Ohio U. Branch teams as well as the Canton Center.) The tournament will be held in the new Ashburt Fieldhouse Feb. 2, 3, 4. The Canton Center took consolation honors last year.

Mr. Kistler noted that tryouts for the team will begin Oct. 15. Practice sessions will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Canton Jewish Center. The Jewish Center will be the site for home games this year.

Basketball isn't the only sport at the Stark Campus. This spring the Campus will participate in a tournament to be held by Ohio State in Columbus. The tournament includes golf, tennis, bowling, and track. There is a possibility of a fifth sport being added.

Mr. Kistler said he would try and schedule some matches for golf and tennis before the tournament.

There is a strong possibility that track and field can be added to the varsity level this year. "It's hard to have too many varsity sports without full time coaches," said Mr. Kistler.

Student Survey Shows Hopes Vary

Several freshmen were asked what they expect to gain from their university experience" by members of the Kentonian staff. Here's what they answered.

Steve Rakunia — "To know the knowledge of the relationship of my compatible associates."

Madalina Miron — "Sometimes of organization in my mind."

Becky Payne — "From my experience I hope to gain a broader understanding of people and all their different concepts and views on a world wide basis."

Karl Harper — "I hope to gain enough knowledge and self confidence to further my art career."

Mary Samet — "I hope to gain a more definite knowledge of my capacities."

John Mancini — "I hope to gain better experience and a better paying job."

Ron Parrels — "Hope to gain status in Air Force and experience in the theatrical field."

Ron Walker — "I hope to learn to get up in time for my 9:00 a.m. class."

Ron Walker — "Looking for a way of getting a better paying job."

Bob Marlois — "Expect to gain a heartbroken bank account."
