We the staff of the 1973 Occopodian dedicate this yearbook to Mr. Charles Presti, our friend and teacher.

When to the sessions of sweet silent thought
I summon up remembrance of things past,
I sigh the lack of many a thing I sought,
And with old woes new wail my dear time's waste:
Then can I drown an eye, unused to flow,
For precious friends hid in death's dateless night,
And weep afresh love's long since cancell'd woe,
And moan the expense of many a vanish'd sight:
Then can I grieve at grievances foregone,
And heavily from woe to woe tell o'er
The sad account of fore-bemoaned moan,
Which I new pay as if not paid before.

But if the while I think on thee, dear friend,
all losses are restored and sorrows end.

The Podiatrist's Oath

I solemnly swear on my health, life, and honor, to maintain the sacred principles of my calling, always striving to promote a high moral and professional standard of practice, and to hold myself guilty of a breach of that standard, should I ever be found guilty of any act which would reflect discredit upon the profession of Podiatry.

I shall respect the dignity and worth of every individual, and shall not allow any personal prejudice or favor to influence my professional judgments.

I shall maintain the highest degree of integrity and honesty in all my professional dealings, and shall always exhibit the highest degree of skill and proficiency in my profession.

I shall not accept or solicit fees for services rendered, and shall refuse to give or take any form of remuneration for professional services.

I shall not use my influence or position to obtain any undue advantage or preferential treatment.

I shall never interfere with the practice of medicine or surgery, and shall not solicit or accept any medical or surgical referrals.

I shall never engage in any conduct that would bring discredit upon the profession of Podiatry.

I shall never disclose confidential information obtained in the course of my professional duties, unless so directed by law or by the professional and ethical standards of the American Podiatric Medical Association.

I shall respect the privacy and confidentiality of all patient information.

I shall act at all times in the best interests of my patients, and shall always strive to promote the health and well-being of my patients, both physically and mentally.

I shall not engage in any conduct that would bring discredit upon the profession of Podiatry.

I shall respect the dignity and worth of every individual, and shall not allow any personal prejudice or favor to influence my professional judgments.

I shall maintain the highest degree of integrity and honesty in all my professional dealings, and shall always exhibit the highest degree of skill and proficiency in my profession.

OF JOURNEYS AND JOURNALS
So short the time between the pages,
   It was only yesterday,
A masquerade of youth courages,
   In search of such my quest today.
Too quickly tumbling to there and where,
   In my journey I could not see,
Yellowed journals upon which I stare,
   Diary of dreams that which once was me.

PODIATRIC OATH

I do solemnly swear to my God, on my honor, to those who have taught me, and by all things that I hold sacred, that as a practitioner of Podiatry, I shall abide by the following precepts:

I shall, above all, hold paramount the welfare of my patient, regardless of fee or favor, and I shall neither prescribe nor give any treatment or drug which will be detrimental to his well being. As a good citizen and because my professional training specially qualifies me to render this service, I shall give advice concerning foot health to all who ask, despite race, creed, rank or station in life.

I shall not solicit patients, knowing full well that this is beneath the dignity of the professional way of life, the aims of which are to render public service. I shall deem it my solemn obligation, without fear or partiality, to warn the public against the devices practiced and the false pretensions made by charlatans, which may cause injury to their health.

I shall cherish those who have taught me, holding high their principles and precepts and I pledge that I shall do everything that I am able to do to promote and to protect the profession of Podiatry and to aid my fellow practitioner.

I shall support and maintain The American Podiatry Association and its counterparts being constantly aware of the need for unity and advancement.

In swearing to this oath, I hereby dedicate myself in service to the health of humanity, and I hold as my goal the relief of pain and suffering. If I keep this Oath, may I receive God’s guidance in the practice of my art, and may I enjoy my life in the respect of all men.
