

Biographical Sketch – Andrew Wyatt

My name is Andrew Wyatt and I am a senior studying English and Italian at Kent State University. My area of interest is Italian literature and culture. I'm working on a bilingual research project in that area to bring Italy's writers into English language literature discussions. I investigated this topic in Florence during the fall semester and hope to continue this work in Trieste, Italy in the summer. None of that would be possible without the generous help of Professor Kristin Stasiowski, my faculty advisor, and the amazing Italian department here at Kent State. I will be working with Professor Stasiowski for the rest of my undergraduate degree to pursue research in Italian and I plan to apply to graduate school in Italian studies in hopes of becoming a professor. In this way I hope to bring attention to great writers and works of literature as well as broaden our understanding of one of the world's most fascinating countries.
