Linda Grace Tenny Frisbie

June 4, 1940 to July 12, 2015

*She came in a pickup
with a one year old on the front seat
"Do you need help?"
"Sure. Come pick grapes tomorrow."*

*She did - long finger nails and all,
a gun and knife under the seat,
her chicken cooked in foil
five miles on the exhaust manifold.*

*For Lucille they picked vines,
then loaded and pressed boxes
of whole bunches into juice
-must for fermenting barrels*

*In deep blurring snow she pruned
back to back with Bernie their mesh steel gloves-on tied to snapping pneumatic sheers.*

*Each missing vine she knew
called for replacement.
So winter grafting, a nursery
with spring replanting followed.
Cabernet being last,*

*coldest and a challenge to ripen,
became her focus in the vineyard
with Ali's guide to winemaking.*

*Always tireless on her knees
the Cabs' got special care.
Questioning everything!
she held total control of red grapes*

*Presses held secrets only she found
Each load tucked boxes to tanks.
But cold crushed Reds needed
her <sup>special</sup> Warming touch to start*

*From Helene, vineyard and wine,
she saw, became one.
Her fussy pallet could nose-out a barrel,
then marry a 10-batch prize winner.*

*Customers sometimes wondered
then loved her for truth, trust,
honest compassionate friendship,
and outstanding memory of them.*

*Culetta and crew developed a respect
for her strong views and methods.
She saved everything but knew where it was.
Daily her chimney smoke signaled warmth to all*

With Gregg, Mario and friends, she learned and shared her help, advice and feelings.

Students got the benefit of many practical and studied years.

*Linda gave her life to Markko Vineyard.
She recorded each vine, and every step
from barrel to bottle to customer -
a living legacy in a remarkable life work.*

But last and most important of all everyone in family stayed in her heart.

Daily meals together, then Sunday Brunch

*Linda, all past and future generations lovingly say, "Well Done"
awe 7.16.15*
