

SelectedWorks

About

SelectedWorks is a tool that provides a platform for faculty and other scholars to present a virtual library of their research and academic output. Individual researchers create and post content to their own pages. Researchers can follow other researchers' pages. Social media links are integrated into the pages and all pages are part of a searchable network of scholars.

Guidelines

Material appropriate for SelectedWorks includes content of which the person creating the SelectedWorks page is an author or editor. This may include peer-reviewed journal articles, conference papers, book chapters, newsletter articles, data sets from original research, literary and creative writing, unpublished works, research reports, and lesson plans and other teaching materials.

How to Contribute Content

Scholars can start their own SelectedWorks pages at <http://works.bepress.com/> . Be sure to use your Kent State University email address for your page to be included in Kent State's SelectedWorks Gallery. Content placed in SelectedWorks pages associated with Kent State University may, at University Libraries' discretion, be added to other Digital Commons @ Kent State University Libraries Communities.

In order to deposit a work into SelectedWorks, you must hold the copyright to that work or have approval of the copyright holder to do so. If the work has been published by a traditional publisher, it is likely that you transferred your copyright to that publisher as part of the publication process. If you do not retain copyright but have transferred your copyright to a publisher or other party, you may still be allowed to post a version of your work. If you are unsure of the copyright status of your work, we recommend using SHERPA/RoMEO or checking the publisher's Website for more information. Contact Kent State University Libraries' Copyright Services for assistance determining the copyright status.

All copyright holders depositing material into Digital Commons @ Kent State University Libraries, including SelectedWorks pages, agree to a non-exclusive perpetual license for Kent State University to use, distribute, and reproduce the work in an open access repository, unless access restrictions are agreed upon prior to the work's submission into Digital Commons.

Examples

To view SelectedWorks pages that have already been created by Kent State University scholars, visit the Kent State University SelectedWorks Gallery. You can find examples of SelectedWorks pages from scholars at other institutions at <http://works.bepress.com/>

Appropriate content for SelectedWorks may include, but is not limited to

- Published articles from scholarly journals or post-prints or pre-prints of such articles
- Works published in literary journals
- Book chapters
- Research reports
- Administration and policy reports
- Papers included in Conference Proceedings
- Keynote and Commencement Addresses
- Newsletter articles
- Unpublished research findings
- Datasets from primary research
- Class syllabi or lecture notes or guides
- Conference presentations